Sir/ Madam,

Subject: Giving adequate Publicity to GST - regarding.

As you are aware the Constitution (122nd Amendment) (GST) Bill has been passed by the both house of Parliament, to create the legal framework for levy of GST by Centre and States in place of a existing multiple levies. Some of the State Assemblies have already ratified the aforesaid Constitution Amendment Bill.

2. The Ministry is making all efforts to implement GST at the earliest and 1.4.2017 is the proposed date for implementation. The model GST law has already been put in public domain and I believe that you must have gone through it and you are aware of the features of proposal GST legislation. A brief note explaining the features, benefits and present status of GST is enclosed for your appraisal.

3. It is requested that wide publicity should be given in your jurisdiction to GST – the single biggest tax reform undertaken since independence. You may in particular, inform the members of trade and association and public during your interactions with them including fora like RACs, PTFs, CCFCs, Open Houses etc. about the GST.

4. You are also requested to explore the possibility of installing unipoles (wherever premises are owned by the Government), on which publicity material could be placed for clear visibility ensuring effective publicity. For this purpose, the publicity material in soft form would be provided by the DPPR, who may be contacted for this purpose.

Yours faithfully,

(Vinay Chhabra)
Director General, DPPR
